

Annual Report

September 1, 2014 - October 31, 2015

Looking Back

Endangered Species Act Victory: The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service succeeded in classifying all chimpanzees, both wild and captive, as endangered under the Endangered Species Act (ESA). Until this change, only wild chimpanzees were listed as endangered while captive chimpanzees were listed as threatened. We are hopeful that this change will provide sweeping protections, including the end of breeding chimpanzees for use in entertainment and as personal pets.

Additional 50 Retirees: In 2013 the National Institutes of Health announced the decision to retire virtually all of the federally owned chimpanzees, other than a reserve of 50 in the event they were needed in research. In November 2015, Dr. Francis Collins determined the 50 chimps held in reserve would also be retired. We are working to devise a plan that will allow more than 300 chimpanzees to have the best retirement.

LPZ Collaboration: Chimp Haven began a formal collaboration with the Lincoln Park Zoo, focusing on building upon our existing programs and increasing sustainability for Chimp Haven; from strategic planning, to expanding our behavioral and cognitive research program, to improving and enhancing the overall experience on our visitor days. We look forward to our continued partnership as we work toward making Chimp Haven even stronger.
